DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

1. The restriction requirement dated 07/14/2004 has been withdrawn in favor of the instant restriction requirement.

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

Group I Claim(s) 1-14, drawn to a method for making a carotene pigments, classified in class 435, subclass 67.

Group II Claim(s) 15-24, drawn to a Thermus culture, classified in class 435, subclass 252.3.

Group III Claim(s) 25-32, drawn to DNA molecule, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.

3. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

The Thermus culture of Group II and the DNA molecule of Group III are patentably distinct products for the following reasons. The nucleic acid of Group III is a compound composed of purine and pyrimidine units while the Thermus culture of Group II is a living microorganism. Searching the invention of Groups II and III together would impose a serious search burden because each of the inventions require separate searches which have different limits, boundaries, scope, and subject matter as evident by their different classification.

Group II and Group I are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product such as using an Escherichia coli strain as a host cell to be used in the process for making beta-carotene and carotene-related pigments. Searching the inventions of Groups I and IV together would impose a serious search burden since each group has a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications, and the search for each of the inventions are not coextensive since each search has different limits, boundaries, scope, and subject matter as evident by their different classification.

Art Unit: 1652

Group III and Group I are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product such as using the DNA molecule in a recombinant process to make a heterologous polypeptides instead of producing beta-carotene and carotene-related pigments. Searching the inventions of Groups III and I together would impose a serious search burden since each group has a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications, and the search for each of the inventions are not coextensive since each search has different limits, boundaries, scope, and subject matter as evident by their different classification.

4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, different classification, and the search required for each group is not required for the other groups because each group requires a different non-patent literature search due to each group comprising different products and/or method steps, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

5. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

6. The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and a product claim is subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be rejoined in accordance with the provisions of MPEP § 821.04. Process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the patentable product will be entered as a matter of right if the amendment is presented prior to final rejection or allowance, whichever is earlier. Amendments submitted after final rejection are governed by 37 CFR 1.116; amendments submitted after allowance are governed by 37 CFR 1.312.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103, and 112. Until an elected product claim is found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowed product claim will not be rejoined. See "Guidance on Treatment of Product and Process Claims in light of In re Ochiai, In re Brouwer and 35 U.S.C. § 103(b)," 1184 O.G. 86 (March 26, 1996). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, Applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution either to maintain dependency on the product claims or to otherwise include the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder.

Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
